Studentships in Photography Studies (Durham University)

Durham University

Edward Welch, University of Durham

The School of Modern Languages and Cultures and Durham Centre for Advanced Photography Studies at Durham University are pleased to offer two AHRC-funded studentships in Photography Studies for the academic year 2011/12 under the Block Grant Partnership:

1. A Research Preparation Masters award available to candidates intending to study for the School's MA in the Photographic Image, or to pursue a research MA in topics related to photography theory and the photographic image across different national cultures (including France, Germany, Italy and Latin America)

2. A Doctoral Award available to candidates wishing to pursue research for a PhD in topics related to photography theory and the photographic image across different national cultures.

AHRC studentships are available to UK and EU students. In order to be considered for them, you must have applied for a place to study with us. The closing date for doing so is 4 March 2011. Applicants should state that they wish to be considered for the AHRC studentship on the online form.

For more information on the MA in the Photographic Image, go here: http://www.dur.ac.uk/mlac/postgraduate/ma-pi/

For information about DCAPS go here: http://www.dur.ac.uk/dcaps/

To apply on line, go here: http://www.dur.ac.uk/postgraduate/apply/

Informal enquiries about MA or PhD study can be addressed to the MA Course Director, Dr Edward Welch (e.j.welch@dur.ac.uk).

Reference:

STIP: Studentships in Photography Studies (Durham University). In: ArtHist.net, Jan 28, 2011 (accessed Nov 6, 2026), <https://arthist.net/archive/841>.