Francesca Marini

Medieval Charm: Illuminated Manuscripts for Royal, Aristocratic, and Ecclesiastical Patronage // Fascino medievale: manoscritti miniati per i sovrani, l'aristocrazia e il clero
International Conference // Convegno Internazionale

Organized by Stefano U. Baldassarri, Francesca Marini, Florence Moly

Among the main goals of this conference at ISI Florence is increasing knowledge of medieval and Renaissance illuminated books, especially luxury manuscripts.

As part of investigating issues linked with the iconography, patronage, collection, production, exchange, and costs of illuminated manuscripts, the papers will focus on topics such as:

- The making of illuminated manuscripts and the collecting habits of European courts, including the Visconti-Sforza in Lombardy, Alfonso V of Aragon, and Charles V of France.
- Luxury books commissioned by either aristocrats or clergy in Catalonia, and those produced for such important ecclesiastical institutions as the Opera del Duomo in Florence.
- Iconographic themes that medieval and Renaissance culture considered crucial to religious ideology, such as Paradise from the Divine Comedy illustrated by the Sienese Giovanni di Paolo.
- Finally, an evaluation of female patronage of illustrated manuscripts through examples such as The Book of Hours of Joana of Castile, and the so-called «Alphabet» of Mary of Burgundy.

The conference will thus adopt a variety of scholarly approaches to promote a fruitful interdisciplinary exchange stimulating dialogue on the social and economic background of luxury manuscripts in medieval and Renaissance Europe.

To this purpose, particular attention will be given to the role played by the patrons who commissioned such works, their manner of choice for the artists and the iconographic programs used on the basis of the specific historic and geographic contexts for the splendid illuminated manuscripts of the period.
