

Early Modern Architecture Request for Information on Research Projects in Progress

Kimberley Skelton, Early Modern Architecture

The Early Modern Architecture initiative (<http://earlymodernarchitecture.com>) is now starting a list of research projects in progress, in response to a series of inquiries following the announcement of our PhD dissertation list and as an additional step in forging a network of international and rigorous scholarly exchange. As with the PhD dissertation list, we welcome projects from any discipline and on any aspect of the architecture (design, theory, and practice) of Europe and its colonies, 1400-1800.

If you have a research project in progress, please email us at emalistserv@gmail.com with your name, the working title of your project, and the names of your department as well as institution. We will then add your project to our list and will post the list as soon as we have a number of projects.

More information is available on our website at: <http://wp.me/P1fiUy-qC>.

Freek Schmidt (Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam)

Kimberley Skelton

Reference:

CFP: Early Modern Architecture Request for Information on Research Projects in Progress. In: ArtHist.net, Mar 28, 2011 (accessed Sep 15, 2026), <<https://arthist.net/archive/1102>>.