

Annual publication: Studies in Japonisme

Deadline: Apr 7, 2017

Noriko Murai, Tokyo

The Society for the Study of Japonisme is now accepting submissions of articles and other texts to be published in its peer-reviewed annual publication Studies in Japonisme (Vol. 37, 2017). Studies in Japonisme is a bilingual journal in Japanese and English. Original texts in English are published in English and translated Japanese, and original texts in Japanese are published in Japanese and translated English. The language of manuscript submission can be Japanese or English.

If you are planning to submit a manuscript, please send the title of your submission via email to the journal editor (nmurai@sophia.ac.jp) by April 7, 2017. Upon receipt, submission guidelines will be sent to the author, according to which the author will prepare the final manuscript. The deadline for manuscript submission is May 6, 2017. Results of the peer review will be announced in late June, 2017.

The Society for the Study of Japonisme (Japonisumu gakkai) is a leading academic association based in Tokyo and is committed to understanding the international impact of Japanese art and culture since the nineteenth century. Since its establishment in 1980, the Society has served the scholarly and museum community in and outside Japan through its publications, lectures, workshops, and international symposia.

Please follow the submission guidelines by accessing the link below:

<https://japonisme-studies.jp/newsletter/contribution-rule/>

For more information about the Society, visit <https://japonisme-studies.jp/en/>

Reference:

CFP: Annual publication: Studies in Japonisme. In: ArtHist.net, Feb 20, 2017 (accessed Jul 5, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/14819>>.