

Fluxus | Film (Chicago, 5–6 May 17)

University of Chicago, Logan Center for the Arts – 915 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois, USA, 60637, May 5–06, 2017

Cassandra Dunn

Symposium: Fluxus | Film

Presented by the University of Chicago's Department of Art History, Department of Cinema and Media Studies, Film Studies Center, and UChicago Arts. Additional support provided by the Goethe-Institut, and the University's Humanities Division, Franke Institute for the Humanities, and the Counter Cinema/Counter Media Project at the Center for the Study of Gender and Sexuality.

In fall 2016, Concrete Traffic (1970)—a 32,400-pound public sculpture by the renowned German Fluxus artist, Wolf Vostell, consisting of a 1957 Cadillac covered in concrete—returned to the University of Chicago campus after a five-year material investigation and conservation study, led by Professor Christine Mehring. More than any other archival document, the recently discovered documentary films of the making and relocating of Concrete Traffic, made by David Katzive, the first curator of the MCA Chicago, profoundly impacted our knowledge of the original context, political objectives, and material history of the sculpture. As documentaries, however, they sit uncomfortably within the parameters of Fluxus work, which, in exploring the threshold between art and life, preferred ephemeral events to crafted works of art—a conceptual challenge also posed by Concrete Traffic itself. As films, they embrace Vostell's comfort with shared authorship, and the Fluxus spirit of collective practice, yet they fall outside the limits of Fluxus Film—a category outlined and anthologized by Fluxus founder and filmmaker, George Maciunas, which included Vostell's stand-alone film, Sun in Your Head (1963). Made by filming images directly off of the television, and for inclusion into a happening, Sun in Your Head appears on Maciunas's FluxFilm anthology alongside films by Maciunas himself, Paul Sharits, Yoko Ono, George Brecht, Nam June Paik, Eric Andersen and Dick Higgins, amongst others. These films, through stark simplicity, explore the shared performative functions of film's material base, its recording and projection apparatuses, filmed subjects, the filmmakers and film viewers as well. The materialist strategies represented by FluxFilm would continue to shape structural film through the 1960s and 1970s, while the photographic recording of performance, and performances for and with media, mark an ongoing area of avant-garde practice and an area of academic research typically conducted outside of film studies.

Fluxus | Film seeks to expand the defining attributes of Fluxus film, addressing not only the problematic role of documentation within Fluxus practices, the documentation of performances as material film objects and the performativity of media, but also the politics of presence in Fluxus film and performance. Given the global scope of Fluxus along with Maciunas's broad account of Fluxus heritage—embracing Futurist theater and Bauhaus design along with more contemporary kinetic theater and dance practices—invited speakers will contextualize the materialist strategies, technical breadth, and political objectives of Fluxus work across media and mediated platforms.

Fluxus | Film is a part of Concrete Happenings – a comprehensive suite of exhibitions and interactive public programs celebrating Wolf Vostell’s Concrete Traffic and the power of public art.

PROGRAM

Day One: Friday, 5 May

Logan Center Penthouse, room 901

16:00-16:10

Welcome: Christine Mehring, University of Chicago

16:10-16:30

Fluxus | Film: An Introduction

Lisa Zaher, University of Chicago

PANEL 1: FluxFilm – Grounded

16:30-17:00

Fluxus Films? A Crypto-cine-logical Study

Jonathan Walley, Denison University

17:00-17:30

Fluid Time in Fluxus Films

Hannah Higgins, University of Illinois at Chicago

17:30-17:55

Discussion

Respondent: Bruce Jenkins, School of the Art Institute of Chicago

18:00-19:00

Reception

Gray Center Lab, University of Chicago

929 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637

19:00-21:00

Screening

Logan Center room 201

Screening (run time 1:43:31)

Fluxfilm program (40:00 min):

George Maciunas, Artype, 1966

Yoko Ono, Four, 1967

Paul Sharits, Word Movie, 1966

Paul Sharits, Sears Catalog 1-3, 1965

Paul Sharits, Wrist Trick, 1965
George Brecht, Entrance to Exit, 1965
Mieko (Chieko) Shiomi, Disappearing Music for Face, 1966
Yoko Ono, Eye Blink, 1966
Eric Andersen, Opus 74 ver. 2, 1966
George Maciunas, 10 Feet, 1966
Robert Watts, Trace, 1965
Albert Fine, Readymade, 1966
John Cale, Police Car, 1966
Joe Jones, Smoking, 1966

Carolee Schneemann, Meat Joy, 1964-2010 (10:35 min)

Jerry Aronson and Howard Sturges, Options, 1969, (7 min)

Ludwig Schönherr, Zoom Dokumentation, 1967-69 (18:00 min)

Eric Andersen, The Sunlawn, 1982/2013 (7:00 min)

Eric Andersen, Marianne, 1986/2013 (4:00 min)

Wolf Vostell, Sun In Your Head, 1963 (5:26 min)

Wolf Vostell, Starfighter, 1967 (4:30 min)

Wolf Vostell, 20 Juli, 1967 (7:00 min)

Day Two: Saturday, 6 May

Logan Center, room 201

9:00

Welcome: Lisa Zaher, University of Chicago (TBC)

PANEL 1: Mediation and Documentation

9:05-9:35

Material Memory, Captured Experience: David H. Katzive's Documentation of the MCA, 1968-70

Michelle Puetz, Chicago Filmmakers

9:35-10:05

Meat Joy, Mediated

Elise Archias, University of Illinois at Chicago

BREAK

10:15-10:45

Stupid Structures, Happy Structures: Documenting Ludwig Schönherr

Marc Siegel, Goethe University

10:45-11:15

TV Buddhas: Video, Vietnam, and the Ultimate Protest

Soyoung Yoon, The New School

11:15-11:4

Discussion

Respondent: Mechtild Widrich, School of the Art Institute of Chicago

LUNCH BREAK

PANEL 2: Performing Scores

12:45-13:15

Flux Pour: Non-Language in the works of Paul Sharits

Melissa Ragona, Carnegie Mellon University

13:15-13:45

Precious Error: Nam June Paik's Computational Imaginary

Zabet Patterson, Stony Brook University

13:45-14:15

Nam June Paik: Computer Filmmaker

Gregory Zinman, Georgia Tech

14:15-14:40

Discussion

Respondent: Seth Brodsky, University of Chicago

REFRESHMENT BREAK

PANEL 3: Intermedia and Abstraction

15:00-15:30

Mechanical Labyrinths Ring Us: Carolee Schneemann's 3:30pm

Studies for Testing Energy

Kenneth White, Sarah Lawrence College

15:30-16:00

Draw a Straight Line. Fluxus, Film and Infrastructural Sensibilities

Ina Blom, University of Oslo

16:00-16:25

Discussion

Respondent: Jennifer Wild, University of Chicago

16:30-17:30

KEYNOTE

Eric Andersen (Artist) in Conversation with Simon Anderson (School of the Art Institute of Chicago) and Lisa Zaher (University of Chicago)

ArtHist.net

17:30-18:00

Concluding Discussion

Reference:

CONF: Fluxus | Film (Chicago, 5-6 May 17). In: ArtHist.net, Apr 21, 2017 (accessed Jun 8, 2026),
<<https://arthist.net/archive/15301>>.