In and Out of American Art: Between Provincialism and Transnationalism, 1940–80

Two-day international conference organized by the School of Art History, University of St Andrews.

The aim of the conference is to reassess how artists and art professionals negotiated the formidable reputation of American art, both within the US and internationally, between the years 1940 and 1980. We have chosen this timeframe because there is a general consensus that during these decades the prestige of the US art world – for which 'New York' functioned as a synecdoche – was understood to enjoy a global reach.
