12th International Conference of Iconographic Studies - Iconography of Pain

Center for Iconographic Studies of the University of Rijeka (Croatia), CEU University Budapest and the University of Szeged (Hungary) in collaboration with Catholic University of Leuven, University of Ljubljana and Gregorian Pontifical University in Rome are pleased to invite you to the Twelfth International Conference of Iconographic Studies – Iconography of Pain.

The conference seeks to explore and discuss recent developments in the dialogue between art history, history, theology, philosophy, cultural theory and other relevant disciplines concerning the representation and perception of pain (both physical and emotional) in history. Pain represents not only one of the very used subjects in art but also the strong creative force for many artists. It has been recently discussed as being a transformative force in cultural production but also beyond the cultural and temporal boundaries. It can be also perceived within specific methodological paradigm of the Warburg's Pathosformel as well as within the broader theoretical contexts.
