Call for Applications for:

Two Members of the Editorial Board of Architectural Histories: Global South and Pre-Sixteenth Century

Architectural Histories invites applications for two new members to join its Editorial Board, one specialising in the Global South and another in pre-sixteenth century architecture. Members of the Editorial Board work with the Editor-in-Chief to guide potential contributions, from submission through peer review and copy-editing stages of publication. Members thus carry considerable responsibility for the content and quality of the Journal.

The Board, in keeping with the European Architectural History Network's mission, also develops the strategy and vision of the Journal, maintaining its disciplinary, thematic and geographic diversity and outreach whilst upholding scholarly excellence and integrity. Members should be available and committed, and willing to devote considerable time to the Journal. They should be well connected in their field(s) of expertise and are expected to seek out and solicit contributions from their various academic networks.

The call for applications is open to all EAHN members regardless of background, discipline or seniority. Applications should consist of a CV (max. 3 pages) and a cover letter specifying the candidate's skills and qualities.

Applications should be emailed to Petra Brouwer, Editor-in-Chief (editor-in-chief@journal.eahn.org), and received no later than 15 November 2018. The new members will be appointed on 1 January 2019 for a four-year term.
