

Robert & Lisa Sainsbury Postdoctoral Fellowships in Japanese culture

Sainsbury Institute for the Study of Japanese Arts and Cultures in Norwich, United Kingdom

Application deadline: Feb 28, 2019

sainsbury-institute.org/fellowships/robert-and-lisa-sainsbury-fellowship/

Denisa Edwards

'Robert & Lisa Sainsbury' Postdoctoral Fellowships in Japanese culture at Sainsbury Institute for the Study of Japanese Arts and Cultures

Robert and Lisa Sainsbury Fellowships provide recipients with an opportunity to work in a scholarly environment conducive to completing a publication project. The Fellowships are available to academics who have received a PhD in any area of Japanese culture. Preference will be given to Early Career Researchers working in the fields of visual studies, including but not limited to history of art, cultural heritage, archaeology, architecture, film studies, and digital humanities.

During their appointment Fellows are encouraged to contribute to our Third Thursday Lecture Series and to organise a symposium in Norwich. They may also contribute to the Japan Research Centre Seminar Series at SOAS.

Fellowships are one year (preferred option, value of £24,000, start date September 2019) or six months (value of £12,000, start date subject to negotiation). Fellows will be given shared office space and are expected to live in Norwich during their appointment. A good level of spoken and written English is required, and application documents should be completed in English.

Further details and application form can be found on our website: <http://sainsbury-institute.org/fellowships/robert-and-lisa-sainsbury-fellowship/>

If you have any queries please email us: sisjac@sainsbury-institute.org

Reference:

STIP: Robert & Lisa Sainsbury Postdoctoral Fellowships in Japanese culture. In: ArtHist.net, Nov 15, 2018 (accessed May 21, 2026), <<https://arthist.net/archive/19556>>.