

Museological Review, Issue 24

Laura Dudley

Museological Review, Issue 24 - 'what is a museum today?'

This journal is co-ordinated by the PhD community at the School of Museum Studies, University of Leicester.

Table of Contents:

Democratising Power Relations in Art Institutions

- Nanna Balslev Strøjer

Book Review: Extinct Monsters to Deep Time: Conflict, Compromise, and the Making of Smithsonian's Fossil Halls. by Diana E Marsh

- Ava Salzer

Exhibition Review: The New Museum of Modern Art

- Blaire Moskowitz

"The Radical Democratic Museum" – A Conversation about the Potentials of a New Museum Definition

- Farina Asche, Daniela Döring and Nora Sternfeld

Representations of Socialist Democracy in China's Museums

- Lanzhou Luo

'Shouts of Korean': Review of the Newly Opened Exhibition in the Independence Hall of Korea, and the Emotional Role of Museums with Difficult History

- Minju Oh

Visual: No One Can Contain Us

- Anupam Roy

The Social Prescription of Museums: Creating Wellness in Our Communities

- Kristy Van Hoven

Book Review: Museums as a Space for Promoting Children's Wellbeing

- Yanrong Jiang

Visual: Neurodiversity Museum

- Jessica Starns

Can Contextual Technologies Favour Museums as Polyphonic Spaces? On the Interplay between

Digital and Physical Narratives in Museums

- Valentina Vavassori

From Local to Community Museum: Hastings Museum & Art Gallery's Journey to a Sustainable Future in the Public Sector

- Damian Etherington

The Stories Museums Tell

- Mari Østhaug Møystad

Visual: Small Acts of Kindness

- Cesare Cuzzola

Facilitators of Integration? The Potential Role of Museums in Integration as a Two-Way Process

- Susanne Boersma

Visitor Engagement with the Temporary Photography Exhibition The Long Apartment Block in Upper-Breiðholt at the National Museum of Iceland

- Katla Kjartansdóttir

Exhibition Review: The Mirror

- Elli Leventaki

Reference:

TOC: Museological Review, Issue 24. In: ArtHist.net, Jun 9, 2020 (accessed May 10, 2026), <<https://arthist.net/archive/23211>>.