

Re: Art History Vol 24, 3

jkirk

I just checked the Blackwell's site for subscription information for this journal, and note once again the outrageous price charged for a sub: $140 per year is the US$ rate for non-CAA members. Increasingly, resistance against such pricing practices is building, everywhere. In the current situation where the rich are getting much richer while the academic class gets poorer, not only can individuals commonly not afford such prices, but increasingly university libraries on tightening budgets also cannot.

Joanna Kirkpatrick

Reference:

TOC: Re: Art History Vol 24, 3. In: ArtHist.net, Jun 12, 2001 (accessed Jul 5, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/24527>>.