USHMM's Center for Advanced Holocaust Studies 2002-2003 Fellowship
Opportunities
Location: District of Columbia, United States
Fellowship Deadline: 2001-11-01

The United States Holocaust Memorial Museum's Center for Advanced Holocaust Studies announces its fellowship opportunities for 2002-2003. The Center awards fellowships to support research and writing on the Holocaust and in genocide studies. Awards are granted on a competitive basis to Ph.D. candidates, postdoctoral researchers, senior scholars, and professionals holding degrees from accredited academic and research institutions worldwide. The Center welcomes approaches by scholars in history, political science, literature, philosophy, religion, sociology, anthropology, psychology and other disciplines.

Visiting scholars spend anywhere from one month to an academic year in residence at the Museum. During this time, fellows have access to more than 13 million pages of Holocaust-related documentation from archives across Europe. Scholars may also utilize the Museum's library; oral history collection; music, film, and photo archives; as well as the vast resources available at other repositories in the Washington, D.C. area.

The postmark deadline for all fellowship applications is November 1, 2001. Decisions will be announced by February 8, 2002. Fellowships may begin as early as April 2002, and must be completed no later than September 2003. All applications must be in English and consist of:

A completed application form

A project proposal not to exceed five single-spaced pages (see application form for guidelines)

A curriculum vita

Three letters of recommendation that speak to the applicant's ability to carry out the proposed project (see guidelines on the application form)

For information on the Center, a partial description of the Museum's archival and other holdings, and to obtain a fellowship application online, please refer to the Museum's website at www.ushmm.org/research/center.
