Art History Fellowships at the Metropolitan Museum of Art

The Metropolitan Museum of Art offers annual resident fellowships in art history to qualified graduate students at the pre-doctoral level as well as to postdoctoral researchers. In most cases, projects should relate to the Museum's collections. The fields of research for art history candidates include Asian Art; arts of Africa, Oceania and the Americas; antiquities; arms and armor, costumes; drawings, illuminated manuscripts; paintings, photographs, print, sculpture, textiles, and Western art.

Honoraria for pre-doctoral candidates: $25,000, postdoctoral/senior candidates: $30,000, plus up to $3,000 travel award. Starts September 2002.

Usually for one year with possibility of renewal for second year.

Shorter-term fellowships for senior scholars are also available. Some fellowships for research abroad are also available for students whose projects involve first-hand examination of paintings in major European collections.

A typed application (in triplicate) should include: full resume, two-part statement, not to exceed one thousand words, specifying what the applicant wishes to accomplish and detailing how the Metropolitan Museum resources can be utilized in accomplishing these goals, tentative schedule of work to be accomplished and travel required during fellowship period, three letters of recommendation (at least one academic and one professional), official undergraduate and graduate transcripts, list of other applications for fellowships or grants applied for in same period.
