

Museums and the web (Washington D.C., 1.-3.4.04)

Museums and the Web 2004

Arlington, VA / Washington, DC

April 1 - April 3, 2004

<http://www.archimuse.com/mw2004/>

Join hundreds of your professional colleagues from more than thirty countries in Washington DC for the eighth annual Museums and the Web Conference.

Preliminary Program On-line

<http://www.archimuse.com/mw2004/index.html>

Full details of the MW2004 program are now on-line. Abstracts of over 50 papers, 25 mini-workshops and professional fora, the full day Usability Lab, the Crit Rooms will help you choose what to attend. Full papers will be available on-line beginning in March.

Pre-Conference Tours - March 30

<http://www.archimuse.com/mw2004/events/>

MW2004 is preceded by 14 different tours. Join your colleagues for a close-up look at their institutions. Make your choice after reviewing the descriptions on-line. (Space is limited in all tours.)

Pre-Conference Workshops - March 31

<http://www.archimuse.com/mw2004/workshops/>

A dozen pre-conference workshops on March 31 provide a chance to take an in-depth look at technologies and issues that affect your Web development. Full outlines are on-line. Enrollment is limited, so sign-up early.

Exhibit Hall

Vendors of museum interactive multimedia technology, content management and design services will display their offerings in the MW2004 Exhibit Hall. Opening with a reception on the first night of the conference, you'll have plenty of time the next day to explore the Exhibit Hall, and find products and services that will help you build and maintain your web presence.

Vendors, space is still available. See the prospectus at <http://www.archimuse.com/mw2004/exhibit/>

Registration On-line

<http://www.archimuse.com/mw2004/register/index.html>

Register on-line to ensure your choice of workshops and tours, and to get the best rate. Early Registration ends December 31, 2003, and saves at least $100.

Can't Make it -- Get the Book

Selected Papers from Museums and the Web 2004 will be published in a print volume, accompanied by all papers on CD-Rom. Order your copy on-line at <http://www.archimuse.com/pub.order.html>

Join Us! *

Each year, MW draws the widest range of cultural and heritage web designers, developers and users of any international event. Plan to join us at what M2003 attendees called "one of the most useful conferences I have been to in a long time", both "practical and fun".

We hope to see you there!

jennifer and David

--

Museums and the Web Archives & Museum Informatics

Co-Chairs: 158 Lee Avenue

David Bearman and Jennifer Trant Toronto, Ontario

<http://www.archimuse.com/mw.html>

Canada

phone +1 416 691 2516 / fax +1 416 352-6025 / email:

info@archimuse.com_____

Reference:

CONF: Museums and the web (Washington D.C., 1.-3.4.04). In: ArtHist.net, Dec 3, 2003 (accessed Dec 28, 2024), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26056>>.