

Article on "Art as Propaganda"

Justine Ciovacco

CALL FOR CONTRIBUTORS - Macmillan Reference USA

Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity

Editor in Chief: Dinah L. Shelton

Board Editors: Howard Adelman; Frank Chalk; Alexandre Kiss; William A. Schabas

The editorial board of the Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity, a forthcoming three-volume encyclopedia from Macmillan Reference USA, seeks contributors for an article on "Art as Propaganda" and "Music as Promotion of Genocide." Specific scopes will be provided, although they are subject to discussion, and the due date will be March 22, 2003.

The set is to be written at the level of an intelligent general reader—its intended audience is upper-level high school students through four-year university undergraduates and public library patrons. Besides an honorarium, the author's name will appear after each entry; a list of contributors will include all authors' names, affiliations, and entry titles. We are looking for high-quality, unbiased articles by experts with relevant experience.

Please reply to Macmillan editor Justine Ciovacco at justine.ciovacco@thomson.com if you are interested in writing one of these articles. Include your institutional affiliation or a brief CV with your reply. If you are a graduate student, please include the name of your thesis supervisor. Upon authorization by the editorial board, we will contact invited authors to provide more information about the set, confirm your assignment, and provide you with the proposed scope of the entry, a contributor's manual, and a contract.

Reference:

CFP: Article on "Art as Propaganda". In: ArtHist.net, Dec 3, 2003 (accessed Dec 28, 2024), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26073>>.