

Post-doctoral fellowship (GMU Fairfax, VA)

Mills Kelly

George Mason University is seeking several post-doctoral teaching fellows to teach sections of a required one-semester Western Civilization course. Candidates with doctoral degrees in history or art history are encouraged to apply.

The Western Civilization course at George Mason University is the result of a joint effort between faculty in both areas of our combined department of History and Art History.

The advertisement for this position can also be found at:

http://www.h-net.org/jobs/display_job.php?jobID=25605

Contact Information:

Chair

Western Civilization Search Committee

Department of History and Art History

MS 3G1

George Mason University

Fairfax, VA 22030

Website: <http://www.gmu.edu>

Reference:

JOB: Post-doctoral fellowship (GMU Fairfax, VA). In: ArtHist.net, Jan 6, 2004 (accessed May 11, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26137>>.