ArtHist.net

Re: Q: Webresources for Medieval and Renaissance Prints (3 replies)

ArtHist Redaktion

Date 4 March 2004
Subject: Re: Q: Webresources for Medieval and Renaissance Prints

(1)
From: Sebastian Prangofer <sebastianpranghofer@web.de>
Date: 2 Mar 2004

Dear Editha Jacobs,

the following (mostly german) websites provide information on facsimiles of early prints:

Bayerische Staatsbibliothek München, 75 Early Prints
http://mdz.bib-bvb.de/digbib/inkunabeln

MARABU (= Mannheimer Reihe Altes Buch) provides selected prints and manuscripts from the University-Library Mannheim http://www.uni-mannheim.de/mateo

The Herzog August Bibliothek Wolfenbüttel provides 344 digital facsimiles of prints on early modern festival culture http://www.hab.de/forschung/projekte/festkultur.html

The Johannes a Lasco Bibliothek Emden publishes digital facsimiles of the library of the humanist Albert Ritzaneus Hardenberg (1510-1574)
http://www.jalb.de:8087/servlet/digbib-jalb?template=browse_title_by_author.html&verity-search =yes&verity-search-string=(L_AUTHOR%20%3CSTARTS%3E%20A)&bib-category=Alter

The University of Illinois is providing digital facsimiles of German Emblem Books
http://images/library.uiuc.edu/projects/emblems

I hope those links are helpful for you and your students.

Yours

Sebastian Pranghofer
Hamburg

----

(2)

From: Klaus Graf <klaus.graf@geschichte.uni-freiburg.de>

Date: 02 March 2004

A list of digitized German books from the 16th century (and links to digitization projects) can be found at:

http://archiv.twoday.net/stories/113113/

Digitized incunabula are listed in some messages of INCUNABULA-L

http://www.listserv.dfn.de/archives/incunabula-l.html

A lot of incunabula illustrations (German prints):
http://mdz.bib-bvb.de/digbib/inkunabeln

List of rare books digitizations worldwide:
http://log.netbib.de/index.php?cat=7

Best wishes
Klaus Graf

----

(3)

From: Kollmann@bbf.dipf.de

Date: 3 March 2004

Dear Editha Jacobs,

there is a database on historical postcards and bookillustrations, Pictura Paedagogica Online (http://www.bbf.dipf.de/virtuellesbildarchiv/index.htm).
At the moment the oldest entry dates from 1495 and most of the books were published in Germany.
Unfortunately the menu is still just in German. But if you try the search via time ("Zeitraeume") you can choose a decade you are interested in.
Another possibility is to look directly for books ("Buecher"). If you need any help with the research don't hesitate to ask.

Best wishes,

Stefanie Kollmann

--