Deadline: April 15, 2004

Jan van Eyck Academie
Post-Academic Institute for Research and Production
Fine Art, Design, Theory

APPLICATIONS

The Jan van Eyck Academie invites artists, designers and theorists to apply for a one or two year research period starting in January 2005. Research proposals can be send in before April 15, 2004. See for application details www.janvaneyck.nl.

PROGRAMME

The Jan van Eyck Academie offers artists, designers and theorists time and space to set up research projects and realise productions. The objectives of researchers and advising researchers are of primary significance to the heterogeneous programme at the Jan van Eyck Academie. The programme covers everything that is being 'done' and 'made' by the researchers, advising researchers, guests and members of staff: lectures, seminars, workshops, presentations, studio visits, exhibitions,... All activities at the academy are brought together in the weekly programme. Interested people are welcome to attend these activities. An update of the weekly programme can be found at www.janvaneyck.nl or you can subscribe to the mailing list at program@janvaneyck.nl.

FACILITIES

The Jan van Eyck Academie facilitates an advisory framework for individual and collaborative projects. Internationally renowned artists, designers and theorists give artistic advice to the researchers and create conditions for an optimal realisation of research projects. The following advising researchers are active in the Jan van Eyck Academie: Orla Barry, Norman Bryson, Linda van Deursen, Paul Elliman, Marc De Kesel, Jouke Kleerebezem, Aglaia Konrad, Armand Mevis, Eva Meyer, John Murphy, Hinrich Sachs, Filiep Tacq, Wouter Vanstiphout, Daniël van der Velden and Annelys de Vet. Besides this advisory framework, researchers are offered a stipend, a production budget, a studio and the facilities of the technical workshops (materials, wood, graphics, photography, time-based media, computer), the library and the production bureau. For Dutch researchers the costs for living accommodation in Maastricht are compensated. Foreign researchers are offered assistance in finding additional financial means.
