The David Carritt Scholarship
University of Glasgow

Outstanding candidates are invited to apply for this fully-funded three year postgraduate scholarship leading to a PhD in the area of history of eighteenth century sculpture, painting, architecture or the decorative arts. Preference may be given to a candidate willing to research William Hunter (1718-83) as a collector and museum founder, in particular the acquisition of important pictures that includes works by Rubens, Rembrandt, Chardin and Stubbs, and their display. This project forms an integral part of the research programme that culminates in the celebration of the Hunterian Museum and Art Gallery's bicentenary in 2007. You will join a department rated 5 in RAE 2001 that is at the forefront of innovative collections-based research.

For more information and details of how to apply, contact
Professor Alison Yarrington,
History of Art Department,
8 University Gardens,
Glasgow G12 8QH,
Tel: 0141 330 5677.

Closing date: 17 April 2004.
