

articulations – Swiss Association of Young Art Historians

Tristan Weddigen

In 2003, articulations (The Swiss Association of Young Art Historians) has been founded in order to:

- support young art historians in Switzerland
- intensify the exchange of ideas and encourage new critical approaches in art history - facilitate and organize scholarly encounters such as conferences, workshops, and excursions

Current activities of articulations are:

- co-organizing the yearly Colloquium of Young Art Historians in Switzerland (2004 in Lausanne, 2005 in Bern).
- organizing an interdisciplinary conference on 'Art and Crime' in September in Fribourg (call for papers to be published shortly)
- fundraising for scholarly encounters
- powering a free mailing list concerning young art historians' careers and scholarly encounters

For more information on how to become a subscribing or active member, and on how to sign up for the mailing list and post messages, please, visit our web site in French and German: <http://www.articulations.ch>

Reference:

ANN: articulations - Swiss Association of Young Art Historians. In: ArtHist.net, Apr 20, 2004 (accessed May 12, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26353>>.