

The Long Nineteenth Century (New York, 5 Mar 05)

Roger Diederer

The Long Nineteenth Century:

A Symposium at the Daheh Museum of Art, New York

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Daheh Museum of Art invites graduate students to submit 20-minute papers for its second annual graduate symposium on recent developments in the history of nineteenth-century art. The symposium will be held on Saturday, March 5, 2005. New scholarship on "the long nineteenth century," with an emphasis on interdisciplinary approaches and international crosscurrents, is especially encouraged. Papers need not focus specifically on the collection of the Daheh Museum of Art or on academic art.

Please send the following materials to Dr. Jamie Johnson, Education Coordinator, Daheh Museum of Art, 580 Madison Avenue, New York, NY 10022 by November 1, 2004:

cover letter

C.V.

cover sheet with name, school, and title of paper

2-page abstract with title of paper (no name or school)

Invitations to participate will be mailed in early December 2004.

www.dahehmuseum.org

Reference:

CFP: The Long Nineteenth Century (New York, 5 Mar 05). In: ArtHist.net, Sep 28, 2004 (accessed Jul 13, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26628>>.