

Position at Reed College Portland

Reed College announces the following one-year visiting position for historian of late Medieval, Renaissance, or Baroque Art

REED COLLEGE. One-year appointment. Start fall 2005. Salary and benefits competitive. Ph.D. or near completion. Specialty in an area of late medieval, Renaissance, or Baroque art or architecture.

The appointment entails

1) teaching introductory and advanced courses in area of specialization;
2) advising undergraduate art history theses;
and 3) participating in a staff-taught interdisciplinary Humanities course on Renaissance and early modern European culture. Reed College is a small, highly selective undergraduate institution with a strong liberal arts curriculum and an emphasis on excellence in teaching and scholarship.

Please send CV, a letter describing teaching and scholarly interests, and 3 letters of reference to

Chair, Western Art History Search,
Reed College,
Portland, OR 97202
(william.diebold@reed.edu).

Application deadline January 15, 2005.

For further information about Reed you may want to consult the College's website (www.reed.edu)

--

Reference:

JOB: Position at Reed College Portland. In: ArtHist.net, Nov 23, 2004 (accessed Jul 19, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26820>>.