

Head Grad. Studies/Deputy Head Research V&A Museum London

David Crowley

Victoria and Albert Museum, London

Head of Graduate Studies /Deputy Head of Research

The Victoria and Albert Museum and the Royal College of Art jointly run a postgraduate programme in the History of Design from 1400 to the present. The Museum is seeking a highly innovative scholar to lead the teaching and research for the two MA specialisms, Renaissance Decorative Arts and Culture 1400-1650, and Design and Material Culture 1650 to the Present, and to contribute to the Museum's overall programme of research policies, strategies and methods.

The post demands a high level of academic leadership with a profound understanding of the issues relating to object-based research. The post holder will have a strong national and international reputation for scholarship and demonstrate an inspiring approach to teaching and research.

For further details and an application form, please visit the V&A's web site at www.vam.ac.uk and click on "About the V&A" where you will find details and application packs for all V&A vacancies under "Job Opportunities".

Details can also be obtained by sending a postcard, quoting reference HGS to: Maria Louka, Personnel Department, Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, London, SW7 2RL or e-mail: m.louka@vam.ac.uk

CVs will not be accepted.

Closing date: 25 February 2005 (5pm).

Interviews will be held at the V&A on 17th March 2005

Reference:

JOB: Head Grad. Studies/Deputy Head Research V&A Museum London. In: ArtHist.net, Feb 3, 2005
(accessed Jun 5, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26941>>.