

Domestic Encounters 1400 to the Present (London 14 Mar 05)

Day

AHRB Centre for the Study of the Domestic Interior 2005 Postgraduate
Research Day

Domestic Encounters: 1400 to the Present
Royal College of Art, London
Monday 14 March 2005

Deadline for registration: Tuesday 1 March 2005

This research day will explore how the domestic interior has been experienced, occupied and perceived from 1400 to the present day. The event brings together scholars studying the domestic interior, providing an interdisciplinary forum for the exchange of new research, ideas and approaches.

The event is part of an ongoing initiative of the AHRB Centre for the Study of the Domestic Interior to support an interdisciplinary community of postgraduates working in fields related to the domestic interior: anthropology, business studies, design, fine art, geography, material culture, photography and social and cultural history.

Registration: full price - £15, students - £5. Fee includes sandwich lunch, morning and afternoon tea and reception.

For programme information and a booking form log onto www.rca.ac.uk/csdi/, email csdi@rca.ac.uk or telephone (+44) (0)20 7590 4183.

Participating institutions: Royal College of Art; Victoria & Albert Museum; Bedford Centre, Royal Holloway, University of London. Supported by the Royal Historical Society.

Reference:

ANN: Domestic Encounters 1400 to the Present (London 14 Mar 05). In: ArtHist.net, Feb 10, 2005 (accessed Aug 2, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/26953>>.