Thought this announcement would be of interest. Note that there is a search engine within the NYPL site.

The New York Public Library launched a new digital picture gallery on March 3, 2005. It is publicly available from outside the library. This is a marvelous Web-based resource with something in it for just about everybody, including a large gallery of history of science and medicine.

The NYPL Digital Gallery provides access to over 275,000 images digitized from primary sources and printed rarities in the collections of The New York Public Library, including illuminated manuscripts, historical maps, vintage posters, rare prints and photographs, illustrated books, printed ephemera, and more.
