City University London

Part-time Visiting Lecturer
18th-century British Art
Department of Education and Lifelong Learning

The Department of Education and Lifelong Learning is urgently looking to fill a vacancy for a part-time lecturer to teach the short evening course Arts of Georgian Britain, which is due to start this Summer term on Thursday 28 April 2005. The course consists of 10 x 2 hours sessions once a week, plus 2 x 2 hour gallery visits. This is an introductory course that discusses the fine and decorative arts and architecture of the period. For a description of the course, see the Courses for Adults website at www.city.ac.uk/conted/cfa/arts (Click on 'Art and Design' and on the course title).

Please send CV and short covering message to j.spours-1@city.ac.uk

Those interested in teaching part time on other aspects of art history may also apply as the Department is compiling a database of potential tutors for future employment.

Application deadline: 11 April 2005.
