

Teaching Position (Minnesota State Univ)

Anna S.

Dear colleagues:

I have pasted below a description of a sabbatical replacement position at Minnesota State University Moorhead. If you know of any qualified applicants in search of a teaching position in a supportive environment please pass the enclosed information along. My contact information is included in the notice.

thank you.

Description:

Art History Position, Modern Art. Academic Year 2005-2006

The Department of Art and Design, Minnesota State University Moorhead, seeks an art historian specializing in modern art for a one-year, full-time sabbatical replacement position. Ph.D. preferred. ABD considered with teaching experience in appropriate areas. The position includes full benefits and the salary range is: $43,098-45,189. The teaching load is 3/3, with 2 preps/semester. The candidate will be responsible for teaching two sections of a senior seminar devoted to post-war art and design theory as well as selected upper level courses such as: 19th-Century Art, 20th-Century Art, Women and Art, American Art, Art Criticism, or Modern Architecture. In addition, the department views this as an opportunity to offer courses not usually available to our students, and therefore will give preference to candidates with the ability to offer upper-level courses in special areas such as the History of Design or Photography, Native American Art, Pre-Columbian Art, or African Art.

The Department of Art and Design, MSUM, has over 450 majors in Studio Art, Art

Education, and Art

History. The largest curricular units within the department are Graphic Design, Photography, and Art Education. We have a collegial and student-oriented department with strong Visiting Artist and Gallery programs. The Art History curriculum is rigorous and highly valued within the largely studio-oriented program. The Slide Library holds approximately 80 thousand slides, and the lecture room has recently been outfitted for digital projection.

Moorhead is located on the west-central border of Minnesota, directly across the Red River from

Fargo, North Dakota. Fargo-Moorhead is also home to Concordia College—a small private Lutheran college—and North Dakota State University, a Land Grant, research-oriented institution. The combined urban population of approximately 150,000 supports a civic opera company and symphony, several community theater groups, and two art museums with extensive programming. The area is served by

Hector International Airport, with direct flights to Chicago and Denver, and all other national and international service through the convenient Minneapolis hub.

Applications for the position must include the following: Letter of interest, cv, undergraduate and graduate transcripts (may be unofficial), proposals or syllabi for 2 or 3 upper-level courses that you are prepared to offer, and the names and contact information for three references. The application should indicate prior teaching experience. MSUM requires a Standard Application Form for all applicants.

The form, and additional information, can be found at www.mnstate.edu/vacancy.

Send completed applications to:

Anna S. Arnar, Art History Search Committee,

Department of Art and Design,

Minnesota State University Moorhead,

1104 7th Ave. South, Moorhead, Minnesota, 56563.

Review of completed applications will begin May 6th, 2005.

The position will remain open until filled. AA/EOWE. Successful applicant must provide official transcripts and be authorized to work in the United States by the time employment begins. Further inquiries about the position may be directed to 218-477-4631 or arnar@mnstate.edu.
