The Learning Technologies Group at the University of Oxford and the Technical Advisory Service for Images are conducting a JISC-funded study into shared image collections in the UK HE and FE sectors.

As part of this study we are running a free two day workshop for those who run educational or research based image collections, and those who are planning on setting up such collections. We will be gathering opinions from the attendees throughout the two days, and will feed the results into our report.

I should be grateful if you would forward this invitation to anyone that you think would be interesting in attending the workshop, and contributing to our study.

Thank you for your time.
