Research Associate

'John Ruskin, Cultural Travel and Popular Access'

Ruskin Programme

Starting Salary £22,507

We seek to appoint a full-time Postdoctoral Research Associate (up to end July 2008 initially) for the AHRC-funded project: 'John Ruskin, Cultural Travel and Popular Access'. Your 'home' discipline is likely to be in nineteenth-century history, art history or English Literature, and you will already have demonstrated sound knowledge of interdisciplinary and humanities research methodologies. You will be directed from Lancaster, engaging in archival and historical research, although support will be allocated to the project's activities at Salford University and the University of Central Lancashire. Ability to join a collaborative team, involving conference organisation and preparing materials for publication will be essential.

The post will provide opportunities for a researcher to pursue his/her own research within the parameters of the project.

Informal enquiries: Professor Keith Hanley on 01524 592451; Professor Brian Maidment on 0161 295 5000 or Professor John Walton on 01772 893842. Alternatively, by email at: k.hanley@lancaster.ac.uk
b.e.maidment@salford.ac.uk or jkw Walton@uclan.ac.uk
