The Long Nineteenth Century:
A Symposium at the Dahesh Museum of Art
Saturday, March 4, 2006

CALL FOR PAPERS

Deadline: January 1, 2006

The Dahesh Museum of Art invites graduate students to submit 20-minute papers for its third annual graduate symposium on recent developments in the history of nineteenth-century art. The symposium will be held on Saturday, March 4, 2006. New scholarship on "the long nineteenth century," with an emphasis on interdisciplinary approaches and international crosscurrents, is especially encouraged. Papers need not focus specifically on the collection of the Dahesh Museum of Art or on academic art.

Please send the following materials to Stephen Edidin, Chief Curator, Dahesh Museum of Art, 580 Madison Avenue, New York, NY 10022 by January 1, 2006:

cover letter

c.v.

cover sheet with name, school, and title of paper

2-page abstract with title of paper (no name or school)

Invitations to participate will be mailed in mid-January 2006.

This symposium is co-sponsored by the Association of Historians of Nineteenth-Century Art (AHNCA) and the Doctoral Program in Art History of the City University of New York.
