

Fuseli and the Fugitive Imagination (London 17 Mar 06)

Fuseli and the Fugitive Imagination
Friday 17 March 2006, 10.00–18.30

This event is related to the Gothic Nightmares exhibition:

The Swiss-born artist Henry Fuseli is one of the most fascinating and complex figures in the history of British art. Following the Fuseli exhibition at the Kunsthaus Zurich, and to coincide with the major exhibition Gothic Nightmares: Fuseli, Blake and the Romantic Imagination at Tate Britain, the two galleries are collaborating on an international symposium to reflect on the life, work and influence of this singular artist. The symposium explores Fuseli's work in a variety of cultural contexts, and examines his literary interests and his sensational treatment of Gothic themes. The speakers include Clive Bloom, Dr Gisela Bungarten, Dr Luisa Calè, Dr Rosie Dias, Professor Christopher Frayling, Dr Asia Hunt and Dr Matthias Vogel.

Tate Britain Auditorium
£30 (£20 concessions), booking recommended
