

Post-doc Teaching Fellowship in History/ Art History (ECLA Berlin)

European College of Liberal Arts Berlin

ECLA European College of Liberal Arts in Berlin invites applications for one-year post-doctoral fellowships beginning September 2006. Ph.D or equivalent is preferred. Superior ABD candidates may be considered. All candidates should be prepared to engage seriously with philosophy and literature. Special consideration will be given to candidates whose area of specialization or concentration includes pre-19th century history or art history. Language of instruction is English. Teaching fellows will contribute to our year-long co-taught core course and may teach one more specialized seminar during the academic year. The Fellows are expected to pursue research interests and to participate in the intellectual and social life of the college. The position requires a strong commitment to teaching, and a creative approach to interdisciplinarity.

Located in the Pankow section of Berlin, ECLA (www.ecla.de) was recently founded as an academically distinguished, international, residential college dedicated to liberal education. Faculty and students share the benefits of a small, close-knit intellectual community.

Compensation: 26,000 Euro + accommodation

Applications will be accepted until 24 April 2006.

Electronic submissions welcome. To apply, send letter of interest, CV, contact information for three references, and a brief statement of philosophy of teaching to
