History of Design teaching position (V&A/RCA, London)

David Crowley

VICTORIA & ALBERT MUSEUM

The V&A/RCA M.A. Course in the History of Design is run jointly by the V&A Museum and the Royal College of Art, and is taught by a team of academic staff based in both institutions.

Course Tutor V&A/RCA M.A. Course in the History of Design £28,212 rising to £33,190 per annum

You will join the Research Department at the V&A to teach a highly-motivated group of students on the leading post-graduate course in its field. You should have a record of excellence in research on an aspect of the Design History of the British Isles and/or continental Europe within the period 1650-1900. You will be expected to teach both at the V&A and the Royal College of Art; to sustain a high academic research profile in an appropriate field; to contribute to scholarship on the Museum\'s collections; and to take significant responsibility for the administration of the Course.

A doctorate, experience in teaching (preferably at post-graduate level), and administrative experience are essential.

Closing date: 21 August 2006

www.vam.ac.uk

Please visit our website to apply online. Details can also be obtained by e-mailing personnel@vam.ac.uk

Reference:

JOB: History of Design teaching position (V&A/RCA, London). In: ArtHist.net, Jul 31, 2006 (accessed Oct 19, 2024), <https://arthist.net/archive/28404>.