

H-Info (network for information / information institutions)

Matthew Gilmore

H-Net Network for Information and Information Institutions

ANNOUNCING H-INFO: H-Net Network for Information and Information Institutions

Member of: H-Net: Humanities and Social Sciences Online

ABOUT I. The H-Info Network: Scope, Content, Purpose.

To subscribe, please check

<http://www.h-net.org/lists/subscribe.cgi?list=H-Info>

H-INFO includes

the history and foundations of library and information sciences;

the history of libraries, archives, document-based cultural repositories, and other information institutions;

the foundations and history of print culture; and reading and reception histories.

H-INFO is an arena in which the multiple interests of librarian scholars, library historians, book historians, cultural historians, archivists, and information scientists can converge and, ideally, engage and enrich a broader community of discourse.

It is a revival of the H-LIS network which ran on H-Net from 1997-2000, covering the interdisciplinary study of libraries and information broadly construed to include literacy and reading, print culture, libraries and archives, computerization and automation, information retrieval and documentation, and electronic information and communication.

H-INFO services include general dialogue, sharing of references, syllabi, and other materials, reviewing of relevant books, and journals.

Like all H-Net lists, H-INFO is moderated to edit out material that, in the editors' opinion, is not germane to the list, involves technical matters (such as subscription management requests), is inflammatory, or violates evolving, yet common, standards of Internet etiquette. H-Net's procedure for resolving disputes over list editorial practices is Article II, Section 2.20 of our bylaws, located at:

<http://www.h-net.org/about/by-laws.php>

H-INFO is currently edited by Betsy V. Martens University of Oklahoma School of Library & Information Studies and Matthew Gilmore.

Logs and more information can also be located at:

<http://www.h-net.org/~info>

Check out the "resources" page at:

<http://www.h-net.org/~info/resources.html>

for

Academic Journals

Information-Related Organizations

Information-Related Projects

To join H-INFO, please send a message from the account where you wish to receive mail, to:

listserv@h-net.msu.edu

(with no signatures or styled text, word wrap off for long lines) and only this text:

sub H-INFO firstname lastname, institution

Example: sub H-INFO Leslie Jones, Pacific State U

Alternatively, you may go to <http://www.h-net.org/lists/subscribe.cgi> to perform the same function as noted above.

Follow the instructions you receive by return mail. If you have questions or experience difficulties in attempting to subscribe, please send a message to:

help@mail.h-net.msu.edu

H-Net is an international network of scholars in the humanities and social sciences that creates and coordinates electronic networks, using a variety of media, and with a common objective of advancing humanities and social science teaching and research. H-Net was created to provide a positive, supportive, equalitarian environment for the friendly exchange of ideas and scholarly resources, and is hosted by Michigan State University. For more information about H-Net, write to webstaff@mail.h-net.msu.edu, or point your web browser to:

ArtHist.net

<http://www.h-net.org>

--

Matthew Gilmore

H-Net Vice President, Networks

H-Net: Humanities & Social Sciences Online

202-459-7372

<http://www.h-net.org>

Reference:

ANN: H-Info (network for information / information institutions). In: ArtHist.net, Jul 9, 2006 (accessed Apr 8, 2026), <<https://arthist.net/archive/28420>>.