

Fulbright Scholar Awards in China

Adams, David

Western Art History in China

Fulbright-Luce Scholar grants provide the opportunity to learn first-hand about the exciting contemporary art scene in China while helping to build the field of Western art history in China.

Eligibility requirements:

Applicants must be U.S. citizens, have a Ph.D. in art history, and have at least three years of university teaching experience in that field.

Note please that faculty with MFAs are not appropriate applicants for these awards.

Specializations of interest include:

Graeco-Roman, Renaissance, Baroque, Impressionism, and modern and contemporary American. In addition to teaching undergraduate and graduate survey courses in Western art history and courses in their area of specialization, grantees will assist host institutions in developing a Western art history curriculum and program.

Teaching is in English. Grants are for five to ten-months and start in late August for academic year grants and late August or mid-February for five-month grants.

For more information visit

http://www.cies.org/us_scholars/us_awards/featured/china_070706.htm

Please be in touch even though the August 1 deadline has passed.

Contact person:

David Adams

dadams@cies.iie.org

or

202-686-4021.

Reference:

STIP: Fulbright Scholar Awards in China. In: ArtHist.net, Sep 7, 2006 (accessed Jul 5, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/28496>>.