

2 Assist. Prof. University of Toronto

Monika Pilchak

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

2 assist. prof.

[1]

Assistant Professor

Asian New Media, Visual Culture, and Contemporary Art

The Institute of Communication and Culture (ICC) at the University of Toronto at Mississauga seeks applications for a tenure-stream appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor of Asian New Media, Visual Culture and Contemporary Art. The successful candidate will be associated with programs in the Centre for Visual and Media Culture (CVMC). Appointment will begin on July 1, 2007.

We are seeking a specialist in the areas of East and/or South Asian new media, visual culture, and contemporary art. Research and teaching interests may include digital arts and technology, the globalization of visual culture, and post-colonialism, among other areas.

The successful candidate will demonstrate theoretical sophistication and a commitment to interdisciplinary as well as strong visual analytic skills and a broad knowledge of Asian visual culture and contemporary art. Applications are invited from scholars in a variety of disciplines including anthropology, art history, comparative literature, cultural studies, East Asian studies, history, South Asian studies, or another related field. Ph.D. required. The candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate courses within the curriculum of the Centre of Visual and Media Culture that includes the Visual Culture and Communication program (jointly administered with Communication, Culture, and Information Technology) and the Art and Art History program as well as to design new courses. The successful candidate also will be appointed to one of the tri-campus graduate Departments at the University of Toronto dependent on the candidate's specific area of research and teaching interests and expertise. (Graduate teaching and supervision will be located at the St. George campus of the University of Toronto.) Candidates are expected to demonstrate excellence in scholarship and the potential to be excellent teachers. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and teaching.

The Institute of Communication and Culture

<sup>1</sup> is an interdisciplinary

research and teaching institute designed to address questions of culture and communication across the humanities, social sciences, and science disciplines. For additional information about the Centre for Visual and Media Culture and its academic programs, go to:

<http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/cvmc/>.

Please send all applications electronically to asianmed@utm.utoronto.ca and addressed to Professor Louis Kaplan, Chair, Asian New Media Search Committee, Institute of Communication and Culture, CCT Building, Rm. 3030, University of Toronto at Mississauga, 3359 Mississauga Road N., Mississauga, Ontario, Canada L5L 1C6. Applications should include a curriculum vitae, a statement outlining current and future research interests, comprehensive portfolio of publications (at least three writing samples sent via email and samples of digital/media-based projects if applicable), and materials relevant to teaching experience. Hard copies will also be accepted in addition to electronic files. Applicants should ask three referees to send letters directly to the address above to be received in hard copy format by the deadline. Materials must be received by December 1, 2006.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas. We offer opportunities to work in many collaborative programs, including Aboriginal, Canadian, environmental, ethno-cultural, sexual diversity, gender and women's studies. The University of Toronto offers the opportunity to teach, conduct research and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

[2]

Assistant Professor

Cultural Studies of Digital Media and Technology

The Institute of Communication and Culture (ICC) at the University of Toronto at Mississauga seeks applications for a tenure-stream appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Cultural Studies of Digital Media and Technology with an emphasis on Visual Cultural and Communication. The successful candidate will be associated with programs in the Centre for Visual and Media Culture (CVMC) and in Communication, Culture and Information Technology (CCIT). Appointment will begin on July 1, 2007.

We are seeking a specialist with an emphasis on emerging media and technologies as well as demonstrated theoretical sophistication in cultural studies of digital media and technology with an emphasis on visual culture and communication.

Applications are invited from scholars in a variety of disciplines including cultural studies, media and communication studies, art history, visual culture, humanities in computing, information studies, science and technology studies, and comparative literature, among others. Humanities based scholars and those with interdisciplinary interests are preferred. Ph.D. required. The candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate courses in visual culture and communication (including the introductory course) as well as courses in the CCIT programs dependent on the candidate's areas of interest. Please visit the websites for current curricula. The successful candidate also will be appointed to one of the tri-campus graduate Departments at the University of Toronto dependent on the candidate's specific area of research and teaching interests and expertise. (Graduate teaching and supervision normally will be located at the St. George campus of the University of Toronto.) Candidates are expected to demonstrate excellence in scholarship and the potential to be excellent teachers. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and teaching. The Institute of Communication and Culture <sup>2</sup> is an interdisciplinary research and teaching institute designed to address questions of culture and communication across the humanities, social sciences, and science disciplines. For additional information on the Centre for Visual and Media Culture and the Communication Culture and Information Technology programs, go to: <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/cvmc/> and <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/ccit>.

Please send all applications electronically to digicult@utm.utoronto.ca and addressed to Professor Louis Kaplan, Chair, Digital Media Search Committee, Institute of Communication and Culture, CCT Building, Rm. 3030, University of Toronto at Mississauga, 3359 Mississauga Road N., Mississauga, Ontario, Canada L5L 1C6. Applications should include a curriculum vitae, a statement outlining current and future research interests, comprehensive portfolio of publications (at least three writing samples sent via email and samples of digital/media-based materials if applicable), and materials relevant to teaching experience. Hard copies will also be accepted in addition to electronic files. Applicants should ask three referees to send letters directly to the address above to be received in hard copy format by the deadline. Materials must be received by November 15, 2006.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas. We offer opportunities to work in many collaborative programs, including Aboriginal, Canadian, environmental, ethno-cultural, sexual diversity, gender and women's studies. The University of Toronto offers the opportunity to teach, conduct research and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Contact Info:

Professor Louis Kaplan
Chair, Asian New Media Search Committee
Institute of Communication and Culture
CCT Building, Rm. 3030
University of Toronto at Mississauga,
3359 Mississauga Road N.
Mississauga, Ontario L5L 1C6
Canada
Email: asianmed@utm.utoronto.ca

Website: <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca>

Reference:

JOB: 2 Assist. Prof. University of Toronto. In: ArtHist.net, Sep 19, 2006 (accessed May 14, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/28503>>.