- topographical landscape illustration produced during early explorations
- classic painters of the West—Catlin, Moran, Remington and Russell
- California Impressionism
- the Taos artists colonies and early painters in New Mexico
- regionalist painting of the 1930s in the Southwest, California, and Texas
- painting in the Pacific Northwest
- painting in Alaska and Western Canada
- architecture and urban design of indigenous peoples and colonial settlers in the West
- early modernist and postmodern architecture and urbanism in the West
- perceptions and attitudes toward the West / the uniqueness of the West
- Manifest Destiny and the West / politics and art of the West
- depictions of women, Native Americans, Mexican-Americans in Western art / issues of the "other" in Western art
- depictions of frontier life
- women artists, Native American artists, and Mexican-American artists from the West
- depictions of the West by artists from the Eastern U.S. and foreign artists, and how their perspectives of the West are different / how do different ethnic, racial, and socio-economic groups visualize the West
- ecology and environmentalism in Western art and architecture
- portraiture in the West / depictions of famous Westerners
- early modernists who painted the Western landscape

- modernist, abstract art, and Surrealism in the West
- depictions of the urbanized and suburbanized West
- Earth Art
- public art and memorials in and about the West
