ABOUT

Soyuz is formally constituted as the Post-Communist Cultural Studies Interest Group of the American Anthropological Association (AAA) and is also recognized as an official unit of the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies (AAASS). It is also more broadly conceived as an international congeries of scholars working in postsocialist cultural studies. We gather at AAA and AAASS meetings in North America, various conferences in Europe, and here on the web to distribute information on our projects.

Like all H-Net lists, H-Soyuz is moderated to edit out material that, in the editors' opinion, is not germane to the list, involves technical matters (such as subscription management requests), is inflammatory, or violates evolving, yet common, standards of Internet etiquette. H-Net's procedure for resolving disputes over list editorial practices is Article II, Section 2.20 of our bylaws, located at:

ANNOUNCING: H-Borderlands: H-Net Network on U.S.-Mexico Borderlands

ABOUT

H-Borderlands is dedicated to the history, culture, politics, and contemporary affairs of the U.S.-Mexico Borderlands specifically, and comparative borderlands more broadly. The network seeks to integrate the longstanding focus upon the Spanish and U.S.-Mexican Borderlands with the global and metaphorical borderlands made popular by recent international events and discussions among scholars and policy makers. The network builds upon the themes and issues covered in various listservs by charting new avenues of discourse that investigate comparative borderlands, globalization and transnationalism, the borderlands of race and gender, public policy, and borderlands theory. In doing so, the discussion list will provide an interdisciplinary forum for scholars and those outside of academe to discuss issues pertinent to Borderlands Studies. The audience, content, tone, intellectual scope, Editorial and Advisory Boards, and services provided by the discussion list will reflect the vitality of the field(s) comprising Borderlands Studies in the broadest sense.

Like all H-Net lists, H-Borderlands is moderated to edit out material that, in the editors' opinion, is not germane to the list, involves technical matters (such as subscription management requests), is inflammatory, or violates evolving, yet common, standards of Internet etiquette.
