

Exposition and World's Fairs Bibliography, 1851-2005

H-Net Announcements

New Edition of Exposition and World's Fairs Bibliography, 1851-2005

Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased to announce the availability of the new and improved "International Exhibitions, Expositions Universelles and World's Fairs, 1851-2005: A Bibliography." This is the third edition of the most current and complete bibliography of secondary sources on international expositions anywhere, whether online or in print. You will find the expanded bibliography at:

<http://www.csufresno.edu/library/subjectresources/specialcollections/worldfairs/bibliographies.html>

On the same web site, you will also find lists of exposition films and fiction, for your reference. Please see the respective compilations at:

<http://www.csufresno.edu/library/subjectresources/specialcollections/worldfairs/ExpoFilmList.pdf>

<http://www.csufresno.edu/library/subjectresources/specialcollections/worldfairs/ExpoFictionList.pdf>

In addition, we would like to announce that the two major web-based world's fair bibliographies (ours and the one from the Smithsonian Institution Libraries), are about to be merged into one comprehensive, fully indexed, searchable online bibliography which will be made available in the near future. As soon as it is complete and fully functional, we will send out a widespread announcement. Judging from people's responses in the past, the bibliography has been a tremendously useful resource to researchers, students and scholars. We hope to keep it as vital and up-to-date in the future, with your help. Please send any comments, questions, suggestions, or additions to the bibliography to Alexander Geppert at alexander.geppert@fu-berlin.de and Jean Coffey at jeanc@csufresno.edu.

Yours sincerely,
