Title: Corrie ten Boom Fellowship Program

Location: California

Date: 2007-03-15

Description: The USC Shoah Foundation Institute for Visual History and Education announces the availability of the Corrie ten Boom Fellowship Program. Named for the Dutch rescuer of Jews during the Holocaust and funded by the Ahmanson Community Trust, these fellowships are designed to facilitate research in the video archive of the USC Shoah Foundation Institute. Applicants should either be post-doctoral scholars or dissertation writers whose research focuses on rescue and survival, broadly defined.

The term of the Fellowships will vary from one month to six months, depending on the research program of the Fellow. Fellowship awards will cover the cost of round-trip economy class travel to Los Angeles and a stipend that will vary depending upon the seniority of the applicant. Fellowships are available beginning March 15, 2007 through December 31, 2008. Fellows will have access to the entire collection of 52,000 video testimonies in the Institute's collection, training in the use of the Institute's digital library software, work space in the Institute, and access to funds and facilities that will facilitate the copying of testimonies for later use.

Applicants should submit a 1,500 word description of their proposed research, a curriculum vitae, and a letter proposing the terms and dates of their fellowships to TenBoomFellows@college.usc.edu. All materials should be sent in Microsoft Word format or as PDF files. Applicants are strongly urged to consult the Institute's website at www.usc.edu/vhi for full information about the Institute, its holdings, and programs.

Title: Call for Fellows: VAN ALLEN INSTITUTE NEW YORK PRIZE FELLOWSHIP
Date: 2007-05-09

Description:

Van Alen Institute invites applications for the New York Prize Fellowship, a new fellowship program in support of multidisciplinary research and experimental practice in public architecture. Early to mid-career practitioners and scholars from the design and planning disciplines, and other fields in the arts, humanities and sciences are invited to apply.

Fellows pursue advanced independent research and generate public projects on the most significant issues shaping the design and use of public space today. Projects can range across media, temporalities, dimensions and scales in the form of exhibitions, installations, performances, symposia and other formats. The Institute seeks critical and creative projects that provoke new ways of thinking about and making public space, and that engage public audiences in imaginative and productive ways.

Up to five fellowships for periods of three months each will be granted in 2007-2008. The fellowship award includes a $5,000 stipend, project support in the range of $2,500 to $10,000, individual office/studio space at the Institute, and the opportunity to present and publish work for public audiences. Applications must be received by May 9, 2007. Information and Guidelines: www.vanalen.org/nyprize.

Title: Fulbright Scholar Competition for 2008-2009

Date: 2007-08-31

Description: The Fulbright Scholar Program is offering 800 lecturing, research or combined lecturing/research awards during the 2008-2009 academic year. U.S. Fulbright Scholars in 150 countries and all regions of the world enjoy an experience of a lifetime, one that provides a broad cultural perspective on their academic disciplines and connects them with colleagues at institutions around the globe.

Awards range from two months to an academic year. Faculty and professionals may apply not only for awards specifically in their field, but also for one of the many "All Discipline" awards open to any field. Grants are awarded to faculty of all academic ranks, including adjunct and emeritus. In most countries lecturing is in English, though awards in Latin America, Francophone Africa, and the Middle East may require proficiency in another language.

The application deadline for Fulbright traditional lecturing and research grants worldwide is August 1, 2007. U.S. citizenship is required. For other eligibility requirements, detailed award descriptions, and an application, visit our website at www.cies.org, or send a request for materials to apprequest@cies.iie.org.
