

Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence Program

Karen Watts

Through the Council for International Exchange of Scholars, the Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence Program brings scholars from abroad to U.S. campuses to significantly internationalize host institution campuses and curricula. Grants are available to bring scholars as resident fellows for one term or an entire academic year to teach and consult in area studies programs, interdisciplinary programs that focus on global issues or courses where participation of a foreign Scholar can provide a cross-cultural or international perspective. Preference is given to institutions that infrequently or never host Visiting Scholars and that serve student populations underrepresented in international exchange programs, especially minority students. Application deadline October 15, 2007.
