Visual Studies, Vol 22, Issue 2

Visual Studies: Volume 22 Issue 2

This new issue contains the following articles:

Editorial p. 101
Authors: Darren Newbury

The Disappeared: images of the environment at Freetown's urban margins p. 104
Authors: Danny Hoffman

Descriptions as data: developing techniques to elicit descriptive materials in social research p. 120
Authors: Michael Mair; Ciara Kierans

Through city students' eyes: urban students' beliefs about school's purposes, supports and impediments p. 138
Authors: Kristien Marquez-Zenkov

The progressive image in the history of education: stories of two schools p. 155
Authors: Catherine Burke; Ian Grosvenor

On the function of the United States paparazzi: mosquito swarm or watchdogs of celebrity image control and power p. 169
Authors: Andrew L. Mendelson

Visual mediation of critical illness: an autobiographical account of nearly dying and nearly living p. 185
Authors: Jon Prosser

New media reviews p. 200
DOI: 10.1080/14725860701507339

Reviews p. 202

Call for Papers - Cultural Trends - Challenging myths, researching reality: The role of evidence in the cultural sector
Conference Autumn 2007 - For more information, please visit www.informaworld.com/culturaltrends
Call for Papers - Cultural Trends - Forthcoming Themes

For more information, please visit www.informaworld.com/0954-8963
Announcement - Cultural Trends - Call for Reviews Editor
For more information, please see www.tandf.co.uk/journals/cfp/ccutcfp2.pdf
Photographies - New for 2008
Find out more and read the Call for Papers here: http://www.tandf.co.uk/journals/rpho

Visual Arts is one of the seven subjects included in the Arts & Humanities Collection. Explore high-quality peer-reviewed Routledge journals. Access current content published between 1997 and the present day.
For more information visit www.informaworld.com/librarians_artscollection

Reference:
TOC: Visual Studies, Vol 22, Issue 2. In: ArtHist.net, Sep 16, 2007 (accessed Nov 11, 2026), <https://arthist.net/archive/29653>.