

Re: Q: Pre-1517 representations of Spanish royal ceremonies

Marisa Costa

Dear Luis,

I've just read you email, and I think that it could be of some interest to you to get in contact with Roser Salicrú, a Catalanian researcher affiliated to the Milà Fontanals, from CSIC, in Barcelona. I know that she was working on that interesting subject of your dissertation, at least between 2005-2006, and had by the time some students making their research on the very same subject. last year, I think, they participated on a conference somewhere in Italy exclusively dedicated on the Royal ceremonies and entrances, etc.

Do you speak Spanish? I feel less at easy writing in English. If you have any interest, I could give you further information on the subject, regarding bibliography not only from Spain but also from Portugal. If you are a Spanish reader, I suppose that Portuguese texts won't be so difficult to read.

I am a Portuguese researcher dedicated to medieval studies, and your dissertation seems to me a quite useful work.

Best wishes.

Marisa Costa

Reference:

Q: Re: Q: Pre-1517 representations of Spanish royal ceremonies. In: ArtHist.net, Sep 30, 2007 (accessed Mar 12, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/29666>>.