

Dissertation Proposal Development Fellowship (DPDF)

Emily Burns

Dissertation Proposal Development Fellowship (DPDF)

<http://programs.ssrc.org/dpdf/>

The Social Science Research Council, with funding from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, provides fellowships up to $5000 to humanities and social science students to support predissertation research. In addition to receiving funding, fellows participate in two four-day workshops organized around the research fields and that bracket the summer research. Workshop exercises prepare fellows in formulating doctoral dissertation proposals that are intellectually pointed, amenable to completion in a reasonable time frame, and competitive in future dissertation research fellowship competitions. Workshops will be held May 29 - June 1 in Saint Louis and September 11 - 14, 2008 in Milwaukee. Travel, lodging and meals for the two workshops are provided by the SSRC.

DPDF is open to early-stage graduate students in all disciplines of the social sciences and humanities who are currently enrolled full time in PhD programs at accredited universities in the United States and whose predissertation research fits into one of the five research fields. Students pursuing relevant dissertation topics may apply to one of the following fields:

Animal Studies

Harriet Ritvo (History, MIT)

Janet Browne (History of Science, Harvard)

Human Dimensions of Global Environmental Change

Brent Yarnal (Geography, Pennsylvania State University)

Tom Evans (Geography, Indiana - Bloomington)

Muslim Modernities

Charles Kurzman (Sociology, North Carolina - Chapel Hill)

Bruce Lawrence (Religion and Islamic Studies, Duke University)

Critical Studies of Science & Technology Policy

Sheila Jasanoff (Science & Technology Studies, Harvard)

Clark Miller (Science & Technology Policy, Arizona State)

Urban Visual Studies

Edward Dimendberg (Film & Media Studies/Visual Studies, UC Irvine)

M. Christine Boyer (Architecture and City Planning, Princeton)

Contact Details

For full descriptions of the research fields, eligibility and application requirements, and the DPDF program, visit our Web site <http://programs.ssrc.org/dpdf>.

All inquiries must be directed to the SSRC DPDF program staff at dpdf@ssrc.org.

Applications

Deadline for submission is February 8, 2008 by 9:00 p.m. EST

Applications are available on SSRC's application portal:

<http://applications.ssrc.org>

Emily Burns, Program Assistant

Dissertation Proposal Development Fellowship

Social Science Research Council

810 Seventh Avenue, 31st Floor

New York, NY 10019

Phone: (212) 377-2700, ext. 441

Fax: (212) 377-2727

<http://www.ssrc.org>

--

Reference:

STIP: Dissertation Proposal Development Fellowship (DPDF). In: ArtHist.net, Dec 4, 2007 (accessed May 14, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/29893>>.