B.Schmahmann

Senior Lecturer/Lecturer in Art History & Visual Culture, Rhodes University, Grahamstown, South Africa

Rhodes University seeks to appoint an art historian capable of facilitating the intellectual growth of both advanced and junior students in a dynamic department. A capacity to teach critical theory will be advantageous, as will an interest in heritage/museums or aspects of European art history, but the university will give serious consideration to applicants who have other areas of specialisation.

Application forms, salary particulars and further details are available at www.ru.ac.za/jobs. Completed application forms should be received by Rhodes University, Recruitment and Selection Section, P.O. Box 94, GRAHAMSTOWN, 6140, South Africa, by 16 April 2008.

Curricula vitae which are not accompanied by an official Rhodes University application form will, regretfully, not be considered.
