

Donald Gray Prize for Best Essay in Victorian Studies

Melissa Gregory

(Deadline: 16 May 2008)

The North American Victorian Studies Association (NAVSA) is now seeking nominations for the Donald Gray Prize for best essay published in the field of Victorian Studies.

The prize carries with it an award of USD 1000 and will be awarded to essays that appeared in print in journals from the previous calendar year, on any topic related to the study of Victorian Britain. (The prize is limited to journal essays; those published in essay collections are not eligible.) The winner will also receive complementary registration at the NAVSA conference at which his or her award will be announced. Anyone, regardless of NAVSA membership status, is free to nominate an essay that appeared in print between 1 January 2007 and 31 December 2007. Nominations will also be solicited from the Advisory Board of NAVSA and the prize committee judges; self-nominated essays are equally welcome. Authors may be from any country and of any institutional standing.

To nominate an essay, please submit by Wednesday, 16 May 2008 (that's a receipt deadline, not a postmark deadline): (1) a brief cover sheet with complete address and email information for both the essay's nominator and its author, and (2) four hard copies of the essay to the Executive Secretary of NAVSA at the following address:
