Porticvm journal of medieval studies

Carles Sanchez, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

Porticvm, a digital journal of medieval studies appearing half-yearly, aims to provide a platform for the work of young researchers in medieval art and history. We encourage interdisciplinary submissions, as well as those with a particular focus on Romanesque and Gothic Art. We hope with Porticvm to provide a forum for discussion and collaboration, and the editorial board will also be organizing conferences and colloquia to promote the work of emerging scholars.

We will publish articles about medieval history and art history, with the possibility of publishing articles related with other fields of medieval studies. The articles should be sent to the email address of the magazine:
