Celebrating Life Images 2009

Lectures Series

In the Darwin Year 2009 Science Center Tartu University Library and Science Centre AHHA are co-organizing the series of lectures "Celebrating Life Images" which take place in cafes and restaurants in Tartu (Estonia) on Wednesdays after 6pm.

The lectures are held by a scientist and a scholar, either from Estonian or abroad, and focus on the beauty of scientific figures and artistic images. Their underlying theme is:

"Whether we look at a cell, a gene, an animal, or a plant, and pencil their shapes, whether we classify their evolution, recall past knowledge, or simulate future data of the biological sciences, our talks take to revealing the splendor of Life."

The 4th lecture "Life Images, or Art of Life" will be delivered by Dr. Matthias Bruhn (Hermann von Helmholtz-Zentrum für Kulturtechnik "Das Technische Bild", Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, Germany) and Professor Juhan Maiste (Institute of Art History, Tartu University, Estonia) at the Cafe Shakespeare on Wednesday, April 8, 2009.

'Walking into the artes, but looking towards the sciences' will be the theme of their lectures. Both have chosen the time around 1800 as point of departure for depicting the relationship between the visual arts and the natural sciences. Focusing on the profession of scientific illustrators Matthias Bruhn will sketch how the artist's pencil influenced the perception of scientists when observing bodies and bones with the microscope. Adding the architectural and enlightened perspective Juhan Maiste will portray how Tartu University artists Carl Senff and Georg Friedrich Schlater combined the idealism of the 18th century to the brush of a new attitude towards framing empirical data in a revolutionary fashion.
