

American art spring 2008

American Art

American Art

Dear Reader,

We want to draw your attention to the Fall 2008 issue of American Art, published by the University of Chicago Press on behalf of the Smithsonian American Art Museum.

American Art has been an indispensable resource for curators, scholars, and collectors since 1987 – it is your window to a richer understanding of America's art and culture. But you already know all this. What you might not be aware of is the Fall 2008 issue.

As a foreign scholar working outside of North America, we think you will find this issue especially interesting because it looks at American art from the outside in. Veerle Thielemans, John Fagg, Michael Leja, David Lubin, Ortrud Westheider, John Davis, and Olivier Meslay offer commentary, three feature articles present in-depth views of individual artists from a global perspective, and the research notes and book trends offer fresh views and reviews of American art as seen from abroad. How have current perspectives changed? Is American art geographically confined? You will have to read this issue to find the answers.

American Art is one of the best places to discover what's going on in your field, and is an invaluable resource for Americanists abroad.

If you would like to subscribe to American Art, or would like more information about the journal, please visit our Web site at www.journals.uchicago.edu/toc/amart/current (<http://journalsuchicago.qm4.net/a/1/11578946/500625/default.aspx>).

Table of Contents

Commentaries

Looking at American Art from the Outside In Veerle Thielemans

British Encounters with American Art

John Fagg

Two Americanists in China

Michael Leja and David Lubin

A "Small Sensation" in Hamburg

Ortrud Westheider

Teaching American Art History in Kyoto and Brussels

John Davis

"The Greater Inclination" in French Collections

Olivier Meslay

From Palace to Longhouse: Portraits of the Four Indian Kings in a
Transatlantic Context

Kevin R. Muller

Ground Swell: Edward Hopper in 1939

Alexander Nemerov

Denman Waldo Ross and the Theory of Pure Design

Marie Frank

Painting Signs: Demuth's Portrait of Charles Duncan

Susan Chan Egan

The New Negro from Germany

Peter Schneck

Remapping American Art

Katherine Manthorne

Remembering Anne d'Harnoncourt (1943-2008)

Kathleen A. Foster

Reference:

TOC: American art spring 2008. In: ArtHist.net, Mar 25, 2009 (accessed Mar 28, 2026), <<https://arthist.net/archive/31382>>.