Call for Papers for the 2010 Conference of the Nineteenth Century Studies
Association (NCSA)

Deadline: September 1, 2009

The Association of Historians of Nineteenth-Century Art (AHNCA) is sponsoring a session at the annual conference of the Nineteenth Century Studies Association, which will be held in Tampa, FL from March 11-13, 2010. The theme of this year's conference is "Theatricality and the Performative in the Long Nineteenth Century," and the specific focus of the AHNCA-sponsored session is performers and audiences in nineteenth-century art and imagery. Proposals for papers that address the visual representation of performances and/or audiences, either broadly or narrowly construed, are welcome, and should be submitted with a CV by September 1, 2009 to Michelle Foa at MFoa@Tulane.edu or by mail to:

Michelle Foa
Tulane University
Newcomb Art Department
Woldenberg Art Center
